QUAKER 72

Down in Barnaby's garden everyone is shockproof.
All new, better than before, insulated spines have been installed.
Excellent craftsmen,
having the determination to seek out the trouble, have minimized the risk in touching them, in being touched by them.
Barnaby's garden is clean and well kept, spotless - crystal vines rising on tile walls, parasol flowers spinning a garden's music.
Down inside your shoulders you can't shake Barnaby's garden off, owning mutual need
for concrete curbs to keep out weeds.
Take your shoes off to enter, test the wind and float - sing, but mind your direction.
Barnaby's watching - approaching; receding backwards like a crab, cringing from seizures of seeing beyond aggravating the furnace on his back.
His hands, inflamed,
are like brown stone toys, resolving, arranging
garden joys, wrapping hard into tree knots and unfurling hours later into morning breaking across your eyes.

Barnaby is his own gardener, tilling the soil with long brown fingers, turning up long brown worms, and feeding on them in the proper night.
At the day ladyworms and willows dance their stupid fantasies at the nape of his charred and tolerant neck, tickle his mutinous wit.
Not thinking, thinking, people stop and listen as Barnaby laughs, and the garden sun scorches their well-oiled skins, fills their skulls with notions of summer worms entangled, touching without wonder.
Aloft a tree etches
a great hypnotic shade approaching them like coming rain far across a meadow.
Standing, entertaining medal light, comprehending motions of stark and brazen suns,
a few people scatter at the last moment - an unnerving, shameful miscalculation of the speed of tree shades.
Barnaby dreams of longlasting sleep and his circle is gently eclipsed - a swan moving above a private fish.
Hours of light awaken him and he rises and sheds a layer of skin.

Religion as a way of life takes serious dedication and surrendering of self in order to experience the true joy of living. I think it holds the answers and I hope enough people (including me) can do it.

The agony of defeat
The 1971 Guilford College football team had its problems. Someone with theatrical humor mentioned
"Break a leg!" and the Quakers took it to heart and to the field.

Several days after practice began in the summer, Bob Vinson, an honors candidate in the defensive secondary was getting a look at quarterback when he severed the bone in his right leg. It was only the beginning.
Another major injury occurred when John Dent was injured in a pre-season contest with Winston-Salem State. Two Quakers were out for the season before they even got started. Then Geoff Clark missed five and a half games with a knee injury.

The Quakers were billed over Emory and Henry College in its season opener, but it was to be the last time.
Guilford dropped the first game 27-11. A week later seemed a week worse as the Quakers bowed to Elon in a humiliating 49-9 loss. C.W.
Post visited the next weekend.
The ground was wet but the Pioneers' Gary Richard was not as they rolled over the Quakers 50-16. Gardner-Webb returned Coach Richard May and pulled the Quakers fourth loss, 42-14.
The next week was the closest, but consolation was small as Guilford was on the wrong end of a 6-3 game with Lenior-Rhyne. The Quakers were blanked for the first time of the season by Presbyterian 27-0 before sliding to Newberry, 28-12; Furman, 42-14; and Catawba, 41-13. In the final game of the season, the Quakers returned home against Wolford and found that they did have some fans despite a 0-9 campaign.
Guilford maintained its seasonal tradition by allowing Wofford a 42-3 win.

Guilford's injury and problem ridden season saw many young and inexperienced freshmen get quick starting positions. A total of 31 men lettered for Guilford, nine of which graduated. It is hoped that the Quakers will begin to shape up early next year. Although still very young, the Guilford team will have the services of Vinson and Dent who will return.

Ed Allen reaped the majority of the individual awards for his outstanding play at defensive end. Allen was named Best Tackler, Most Valuable Player and was presented with the Golden Helmet Award for Leadership. Mike Twichell was recognized by his teammates as the Best Husher while Rick Minor was voted Best Blocker. Both Twichell and Minor return to Guilford's offensive line.

Take the return of 22 lettermen, the Quaker recruiting and the coaching of Wilbur Johnson, Dennis Haglan, Buzz Dunning and Bobby Owens, and Guilford may, they just may, have something there.

Guilford's 1971 Tennis Squad had only two experienced players returning from the past year. The number two man, a senior, Peter Fay and the number one man, a junior, Bill Kemp were the nucleus around which the team was built. Three freshmen played a prominent role on the team and two sophomores who had never played competitive tennis, rounded out the squad.

Considering the inexperience of the total squad and the toughness of the schedule, it was felt that the team had a very successful season regardless of its final record. With a few slight breaks, three or four more matches could easily have fallen to the Quakers. That would have pushed the record above the .500 mark.
